• Does the Minister endorse Ms Hanson's behaviour in sending provocative stubby holders to residents of Melbourne towers in hard lockdown?
• Was it appropriate for Australia Post to intervene to push the delivery of Ms Hanson's unsolicited stubby holders to households in locked-down towers in Melbourne?
• Does the delivery of these items not violate Australia Post's own rules: "D3.11 – Unsolicited indecent or offensive material Australia Post prohibits in all services unsolicited material that advises, notifies or advertises the existence or availability of indecent or offensive material"?
• Does the government feel misled by Australia Post and CEO Christine Holgate over the need for the ADM/temporary regulatory relief, which posties in Victoria are saying is making parcel backlogs worse?
